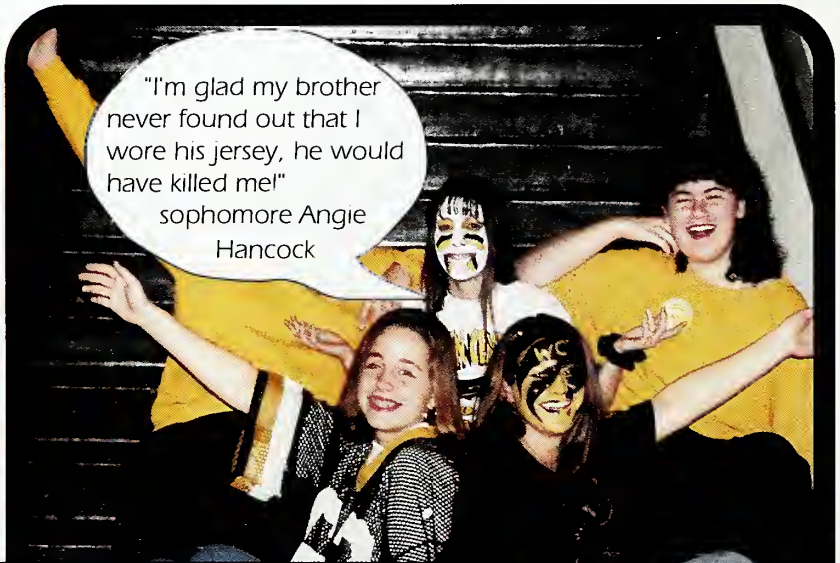
Over 1000 copies of the 58th volume of the yearbook were printed by Herff Jones Yearbook at a cost to the students of $35 (if they ordered it early) or $40 (if they ordered it late in the year). Mrs. Cathy Wolff served as the Herff Jones representative and Mrs. Nancy Williams was the in-plant consultant. Ms. Gayle Harmon was the Publications Director and Yearbook Advisor. Printed on 80 pound Bordeaux paper, each section follows a theme concept and design, which runs throughout the book, with variations to individualize each section. Theme concept and design (including general formats for the different sections, with input from the individual section editors) was created by the Co-editors-in-chief, Jennifer Stayton and Lydia Serrano. Graphics which can be found throughout the book in the circles were all hand-drawn by our own Graphic Editor, junior Kalin Reed, then scanned to be placed on the pages. The cover, endsheets, Opening and Student Life Sections, as well as the begining of Performing Arts, were printed using four color process. Portrait and group photos were taken by Prestige Portrait Studio, while candids were taken by either Prestige or staff photographers. The four color Mini-Mag was ordered from Herff Jones and then added to the back endsheet of the yearbook.

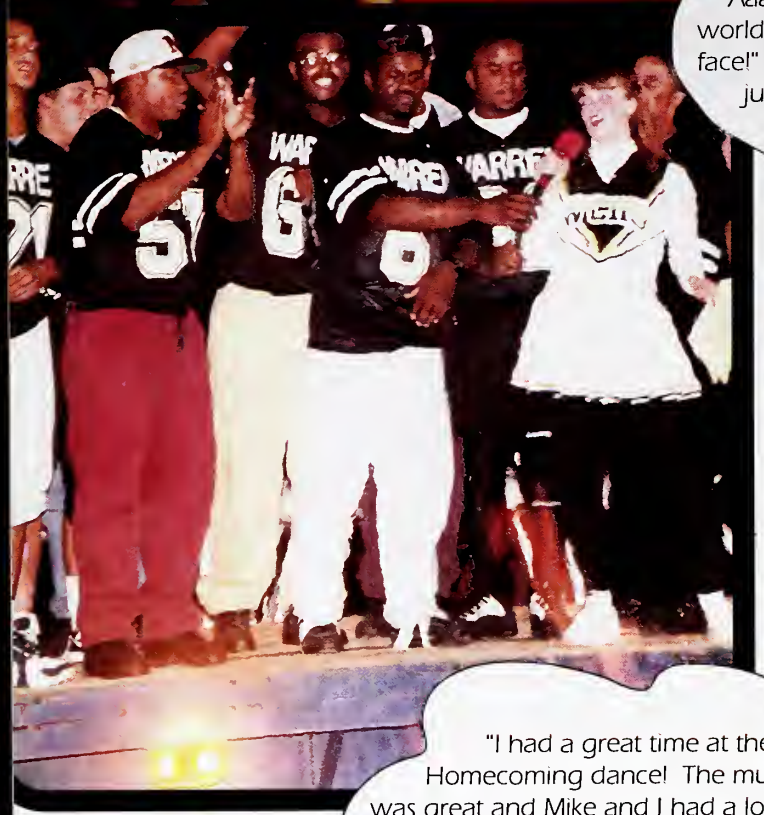
What time is recess?

"I felt as though I could just forget about everything, go crazy, and have a blast my senior year."
senior Amy Edwards



"I'm glad my brother never found out that I wore his jersey, he would have killed me!"
sophomore Angie Hancock

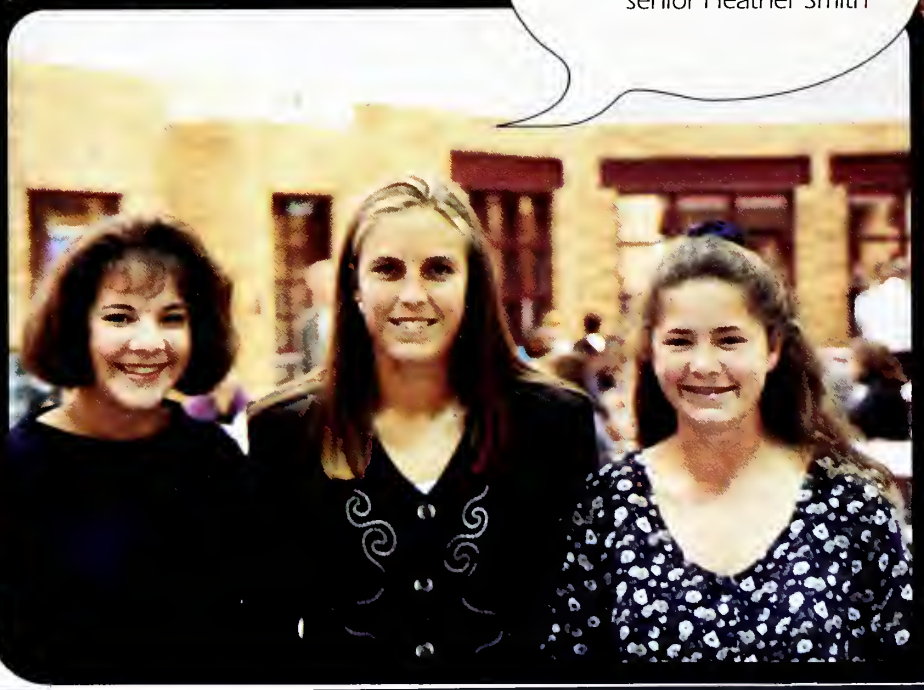
"Hey baby, lookin' for a date? 'Cause I'm your woman if ya are!"



"Aaahhhh, what in the world happened to my face!"
junior Brad Griggs

"I had a great time at the Homecoming dance! The music was great and Mike and I had a lot of fun dancing and being crazy."
senior Summer Burgin

"I shocked quite a few people when I dressed up."
senior Heather Smith



I need a vacation Party!

It's all good

Below: Seniors Carlos Tiggs, Pat Messer, and David Jones had their T' shirts made in Panama City. David Jones said, "These are the times of our lives, that's why no-one rides for free". Rukiya Bey

Lounging around on the beach

Above: Panama City Beach was litered with tons of Warren students escaping Indiana to play in the ocean and lay out on the beach. Spring breaks all about having fun with your friends. Emily Armstrong

My hair's all in knots!

Right:"I thought the hair wrap was cool. The person doing my hair, Angel, was kind of wild, but she promised me that it would be different. The store where I had this done was very versital. It had clothes, body peircing, swim suits, and hair wraps. Daytona was a blast!" said Jenny Johnson. Jenny Coffin

Look out below!

Left: Senior Heather Smith decided to get a birds eye view on Panama Beach while being pulled behind a boat on a parachute. Para-sailing is one of the many activities you can try on the beaches of Florida. That is if you are 18 years old and can afford it! Eric Estelle

Viva, Las Vegas!

Below Left: Las Vegas was even visited by some Warren students. Amanda Hacker said, "A couple of pirates and lots of treasure... Sin City Rocks!" Cindy Doyle

How's this for romance?

Below: "Nashville was a blast! I don't think it really matters where you go for spring break- it just depends on who you go with" according to Sandi Gibson. Smiling for a photo outside the Opryland Hotel in Nashville Tennessee with her boyfriend. Sandi Gibson

Friends till the end!

Hangin' with Harry

Above: "School isn't just a place for learning, it is also a place for socializing." said Junior William Gude. Sophomore Paul Harding said, "Sometimes when I don't feel like eating lunch, me and buddies take time out to chill in the commons or play cards." Rukiya Bey Right: Many students take time to take trips to be together and get away from the hassles of school and parents. Many of the trips bring friends closer and make friendship stronger. Senior Jenny Stayton said, "No matter where we are we always made the best out of every situation. That's what friends are for. David Hawkins

Friends Are Friends Forever

Left: John Swanigan and Nakesha Stewart are friends for life. Their friendship like many others are ones where they have a lo in common. "We both enjoy sports, so we usually go to games together," said sophpomore Nakesha Stewart. Michelle Olnick Below Left: Some friendships last a lifetime. Many of the students friendships have lasted through most of theirs. Senior Pat Messer said, "Robert Haley, Michael Bennett, and Carlos Tiggs, and I have been friends since seventh grade. We do everything together. We love each other in a friendly way and we always will. Rukiya Bey

A Force to Be Reckoned With

Through thick and thin friendships, like family, are often thicker than water. Below: Senior Jiffy Skinner said, "Friends are always there when you need them. During my years at Warren, I realized that the friends I made here will always be there for me through rough times and nothing will ever come between us." Nathan Kelley

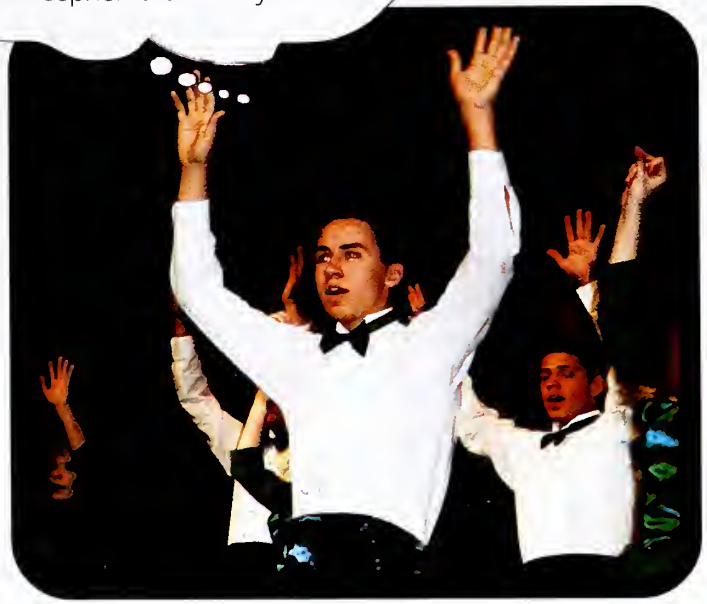
"I don't think anyone noticed that I messed up the dance twice. I played it off pretty well." sophomore Tommy Alscott



"Being in the Connections was a lot of fun. The choir and the musical helped to make my senior year a great success." Senior Melissa Byrd

Performances live on...

Long hours pay off in actual performances

Performing in the fall plays, "The Nerd" and "The Christmas Carol" gave students their big chance to shine. Junior Jayme Willan said, "I love acting and the feeling of being on stage and meeting new people." Freshman Katie Miklik said,"I like drama and I need the experience." Senior Jeremy Bennett added, "I have been involved in the theater since my sophomore year. I enjoy working with both directors and cast."

Though the audience may not realize all the preparation backstage, it is very important to the actors. Senior Jon Autry said,"Sometimes things were slow backstage. Therefore, I would finish learning my lines while the play was in progress." Junior Audrey Usina said, "When all of us were backstage in a circle before the show, I cried because I knew that I would never perform with such an outstanding cast, such as the cast from the Christmas Carol."

"The Nerd" and "The Christmas Carol" cast had a lot of great memories of the times spent working on the play. Senior Melody Chapman said,"Seeing everyone unite and how we all came together to put on a good show is what I felt made it special. This whole year the drama department I feel has been filled with unity." Junior Charity Berry said,"The most memorable moment for me was during the Saturday morning performance. We were taping the play, and the bed broke and fell! Everyone on stage tried not to laugh but, as soon as they got off stage they all broke out laughing. It was hysterical!"

The fall plays were not only enjoyable for the performers, but also for the audience. Junior Jason Buffalari said, "I saw both plays and they were very entertaining. I thought all the actors performed their parts extremely well." Jenny Humble

BYE-BYE BIRDIE!

Spring Musical Receives Standing Ovations

"Being in the musical is something I will remember for the rest of my life," said senior Josh Slagle. The cast and crew of the musical became a very close-knit group during the three months that they worked to present a show that would receive standing ovations.

The variety of people involved caused many unexpected friendships. "All the cliques in the cast decided to put their differences aside and work together," commented senior Erin Squire. Senior Matt Usina agreed. "The cast and crew were the best part of being in the musical." Junior Tasha Danner said, "I made a lot of new friends. It was a great experience and a lot of fun."

Everyone did their part to make sure it was fun, even through all the hours of rehearsal. "There were inside jokes going on constantly," said senior Melody Chapman. Senior Julie Pollard added, "The best part was shrink wrapping Johnny Spittler's car! Another funny memory was when the Chorus went naked under their robes." There were stressful times as well. Usina said, "The long hours of practice were productive, but they took their toll." Mrs. Reed said, "The added pressure of Tech Week really helped a lot of people by putting extra energy into their performances."

Junior Greg Weitekamp said, "It was great to see everything come together. Going on stage opening night was a great feeling." Senior Josh Tuttle said, "It was awful to know that when it was all over, we had to go home and it would be the end of my last high school musical. My least favorite part was the closing applause on Saturday night. Overall, it was a great success." Media Trent

If all the world's a stage... I want more props!

The people in the Stage Crew, Orchestra Pit, and cast of Bye-Bye Birdie spent many hours working behind the scenes in order to put on a successful show. Everything from the sound and lighting to the music and costumes had to be taken care of in order to insure an exceptional performance.

The Stage Crew students performed various jobs. "We build the props, paint, and take care of basically all the technical aspects of the show," explained sophomore Heather Cooney. Junior Carrie Shurig added, "We get to try a little bit of everything. Nobody has to do just one specific thing." Junior Anne Lakin said, "I see to it that everyone's jobs get done and I make sure that things are running smoothly. Tech Week is definitely the most stressful, but it is also a lot of fun. Meeting and working with new people offers a social aspect to the whole thing."

The members of the Orchestra Pit worked diligently in order to provide the musical accompaniment for the play. Senior Chris Petsel said, "We put in a lot of hours to learn the music. By the end of Tech Week, the Pit had spent so much time at rehearsal that we could have put on the play ourselves!"

The actors also had much to do backstage. "We had to make sure that our make-up, hair and costumes were exactly right. We also had to pay attention to our cues and sometimes help the Stage Crew move props," explained senior Jason Schanzel.

The show could not go on without the work of the people behind the scenes. When the curtains finally went up, the dedication and determination of all these students resulted in four top-notch performances. Amanda Avery

Right: It's fun to work with the aspects of shows which most people don't notice, explained junior Charles Brandt. Michelle Olnick

Looking Good

Band presents award-winning show

New uniforms and incoming underclassmen gave a new aspect to the Gold Brigade Band. More than half of the 230 member band was made up of new members. Regardless of their size, the Gold Brigade made its mark on marching band competition.

Once the new uniforms arrived, the band improved their scores as well as their pride. "I felt really good in my new uniform. I performed very well," said junior Ellen Kier. In District competition at Southport High School, the band received a Division I rating, advancing to Regionals. Although the band did not advance to State, they won numerous awards including Best Music, Best General Effect, and Best Pit Crew. "My goal for the season was to be extremely competitive. We were very competitive, but we just missed out on going to State," said Drum Major Bryce Nixon.

Many special moments occured throughout the season. "My best performance was Homecoming. The response from the crowd was awesome," said senior Ty Woodburn. "My best memory was the feeling I got after my performance at District because it was one of my best shows," commented sophomore Ben Miller. "My favorite part of the show was when we spelled out 'WARREN.' The crowd really cheered for us," said senior Jeff Sullivan. Director John Hilmer said, "There was dramatic improvement throughout the season. I think it was a real success." Teresa Hromada

The Rest is Just Fluff

"You just get a rush when you know it was a good show," said sophomore Allyson Curtis. The Color Guard got one "rush" after another.

"You just go out there and show the audience what's inside of you. You show them what the music means to you. It all gets pretty emotional," said junior Katie Bartley, "When you're out on the field, you're not 40 separate people. You perform as one."

Everyone has their good, bad, and of course, their best shows. Sophomore Tammy Hartle said, "My best performance was at the New Castle contest. I just felt it." Senior Nicole Bell-Price added, "When I perform, everything locks in, and I do really well." Freshman Amanda Strange said, "My best performance was at the first football game. I finally knew what we had been working for. It felt great."

Color Guard consists of two seasons, marching guard and winter guard. "I look forward to winter guard because it's a chance to become closer friends," said junior Media Trent. Senior Captain Veronica Anderson agreed, "I met a lot of nice people that later became my sisters."

Freshman Kallie Anslow was happy that, "you don't have to worry about what you look like at practices because there aren't any guys in it!" Junior Samantha Jern enjoyed winter guard because, "it helps your inner-self, your pride, confidence, and in your first year of high school it helps you make friends fast."

Sophomore Chalynn Heeter felt that, "our first contest was scary. I kept shaking and I thought I'd forget the entire show." The bus trips provided many memories. "On the way to our last contest we decorated the bus with streamers and banners and danced, sang down the aisle," said Heeter. Aother incident that stood out was when they got a bag of M&Ms for participation. "We hadn't won anything before that," explained Anderson.

Even though it wasn't a perfect season, there was one thing they all agreed on. "We wouldn't change the friendships we made," laughed freshmen Kallie Anslow, Jenny Gammons, Windi Stotler, and junior Marena Gammons. Heather Ressler

Tuning Their Way to the Top

Band Places Fifth in State

There was always a chance to hear some great music in the Performing Arts Center with the band's many concerts. Between the honors band, the concert band, and the symphonic band, the air was always filled with music. The honors band went to state, and placed 5th out of 16. Junior Abby Guernsey commented, "Going to state was really special to me. It made all of the hard work worth while."

The year consisted of so much more than the great achievement of placing in state competition. Junior Diana Dugger said, "Band gave me the opportunity to be involved in the solo/ensemble contest, and ISSMA contest. We also gave three public concerts."

The symphonic band was busy, too. Sophomore Angela Montgomery commented, "Symphonic band is great because we play a lot of music that I like. We don't practice as much as honors band, so it's more compatible with my busy schedule."

Junior Nathan Kraesig added, "Going to contest with symphonic band was challenging, but our first division rating made it worth the effort."

Concert band Sophomore Ben Miller said, "Concert band deals with technique, whereas honors band deals with more difficult pieces. Concert band has helped me perfect my technique."

Band didn't just teach pitch and tone. Junior Carlton Simmons said, "I like symphonic band because its a place where you can make music and hang out with your friends." Ellen Kier, a junior trumpet player, added, "Band has increased my level of confidence. It has improved my appreciation of music and produced some of my closest friends." Media Trent

Strumming the Right Strings

Hard Work Carries Orchestra to State

Throughout the school year during periods 3, 4, and 5, something musical was going on in Mr. Beckley's classes. During third and fourth hours the Concert Orchestra, consisting of freshman and sophomores, would practice every day. The fifth hour Symphony Orchestra class consisted of the upperclassmen and a few select sophomores.

Throughout the year, the orchestra prepared for the Annual State Orchestra Competition by practicing after school and early in the morning before school. Senior Heather Smith said, "It was hard to try to drag myself out of bed in the morning to get to a 6:45 a.m. practice, but when we ended up making it to the State competition, it was worth it." The Warren Central Symphony Orchestra placed eighth in the State contest this year. Junior Richard Benberry said, "I feel we did an excellent job. We worked really hard for it and I felt very honored and proud that we could achieve that."

Besides performing in various concerts, the orchestra held a twenty-four hour marathon to raise money for their trip to the Bahamas and Orlando, Florida. Many students enjoyed playing in this event. Sophomore Kristia Tobin said, "I had a wonderful time! What I enjoyed most was when "Boomer" of the Pacers conducted us. It was hilarious."

The members of Orchestra enjoyed being in the class because everyone played as a part of a team to create a beautiful harmony. Senior Concertmaster Brandon Paige said, "I have been playing the violin for fourteen years. I love to play challenging music". Junior Heather Garber said, "All my closest friends are in Orchestra, so it makes the class a lot of fun to attend everyd

Sing Loud and Clear

Show choirs rise to the top

With melodic voices and dancing feet, Connection and Hi-lites performed at a variety of different functions. "I liked performing at Creston, Stonybrook and Raymond Park Jr. High Schools during Christmas best. The students look up to us and it was neat being able to see some of our old teachers," said senior Aimee Trumpey. Some other functions that the show choirs performed for included the Community dance held in the Performing Arts Center, the Madrigal Dinner, and the Christmas Arts and Crafts Show at the state fair grounds.

Being apart of a show choir involved a lot of tedious hard work. Both choirs rehearsed everyday during their class hour plus an extra two hours on one selected day out of the week and then any additional hours which were needed to enhance their performance. "Being apart of the Hi-lites is a lot of hard work but I enjoy the opportunities and the experiences that it gives me," said junior Allison Young. Senior Matt Usina commented, "I wanted to work my way up to the top choir ever since 7th grade. Being in the Connection is a lot of fun but it is also very demanding."

When all of the hard work was over and done with, it was evident in their stage presentation. "I think one thing that helps to make our choir as good as it is, is the fact that we get along with each other. When we look like we are having a good time with our friends on stage, the audience enjoys watching us that much more," stated senior Karen Sipe. Junior Nelia Hoffman said, "The best thing about choir is the feeling of accomplishment after we finish a concert and hear all of the applause of the audience." Jennifer Stayton

Hitting the Notes

Choirs give it their all

Choir is not just about picking up a sheet of music and singing. It also involves being disciplined and learning to perform. Sophomore Amanda Blankenship said, "I decided to join Choir because I love music and I love to sing. It is a way for me to learn new songs and be able to perform for an audience." Tara Neal, sophomore, said, "I really enjoy being in Golden Singers. It takes some time to learn your notes and on some songs it's hard not to breathe when you're not supposed to."

Some students love to sing so much that not only do they participate in a group that does choreography, they also join the Concert Choir. "The main difference between the Concert Choir and the other groups is that the Concert Choir does not perform choreography. Some students love to sing but have no desire to dance, so Mr. Carter and I wanted to give them an opportunity to perform as well," said Mrs. Janet Anderson. Senior Jessica Hayes said, "I like being in both choirs because that way I get to sing all different kinds of music." Senior Stasi Main added, "Because I'm in a choir that dances and one that doesn't, I get the best of both worlds!"

Whether in a choreographed choir or the Concert Choir, the goal is the same; to be the best possible. Sophomore Melissa Helms explained, "We go over our music and dance steps several times a day and have after school rehearsals before big shows. It takes a lot of time and effort to make everyone's schedule fit together." Senior Cindy Coleman said, "There is a lot of work involved with building the magic and making a performance come together just right." Mandy Pitman concluded, "Since I love to sing and dance, it's all worth it!" Aimee Trumpey

Introducing New Voices

Freshman Choir Hit High Notes

"The worst experience I had was when we had a performance at Keystone at the Crossing and I got so nervous from the audience looking at me that I forgot the words to my solo. I started to make-up words as I went along," said Michelle Lutrell. While some students get butterflies in their stomach at the thought of singing in front of a large audience, others enjoy it. Alicia Redmond said, "I feel comfortable when I see a lot of people out in the audience. It actually helps me to relax."

One of the biggest differences between performing in high school rather than at a junior high is that the Freshman Choir grew larger because students from both the junior highs have been combined. "Sometimes it's difficult to get songs learned and memorized because we are such a large group and everyone doesn't put forth their effort to try to contribute, but when we work together everything comes out fine," said Katy Parker. Besides just singing, the Freshman Choir put a lot of time and effort into memorizing the lyrics and the choreography involved with performing with the choir. "My favorite thing about being in choir is learning the dance steps that go along with our songs. Our choreographer shows us a lot of different moves," said Susan Sisk.

Michelle Luttrell said, "It's a great feeling to be able to get on stage and hear the audience applaud. That's what makes it worth being in choir. The applause shows us that people have enjoyed what we did and we had a good performance." Rukiya Bey

Special groups fill school with rhythm

"We have a number of very talented musicians in the orchestra program who are outstanding soloists," said director Mr. Beckley. Many students devoted their time and effort to activities such as string ensemble, jazz band, dance ensemble, and the drum corp.

Students joined these special groups for many different reasons. Joe Everett said, "I like being in String Ensemble because it's both fun and educational." Senior Aaron Huntsman added, "By being in Jazz Band I can broaden my musical horizons as much as possible."

"Dance Ensemble," said director Mrs. Anderson, "is a very select group. It's small in number to make the learning easier and quicker." Julie Skinner added, "Being the only freshman, I usually got picked on by the upper-classmen but we always seemed to get along."

Junior Willie Mauger, of the Drum Corp, said, "I didn't always like having the freshmen there. Their lack of experience created an obstacle, but we worked together and overcame it." Senior Jim Hanson explained, "I think the most memorable moment for all of us was when we beat our long time rivals Warsaw, in the percussion section, at the New Castle Invitational. At that moment I had never seen that kind of togetherness and happiness out of the drumline." Even when all the performances were over, the students still had their musical memories to look back on. Angela Montgomery

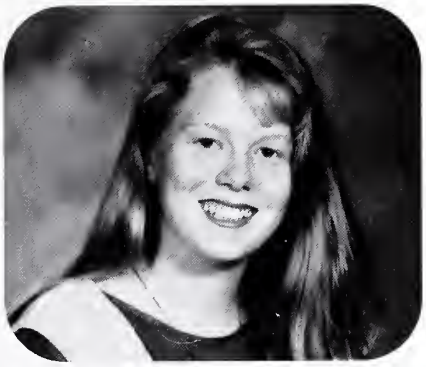
Science Department adapts to the latest changes

New Formulas

Science is not just equations and problems; it is also practical and hands-on applications. With the many labs and outdoor activities science students showed that all learning does not take place in the classroom. Heather Ressler, junior, said, "The marshmallow lab, when we were measuring terminal velocity, was one of the most fun labs all year. We went out to the football stadium and got to make a mess while eating marshmallows."

The new technology the science wing received a year ago would have been of no use without the teachers to instruct the students in fun ways of learning. Ms. Southerland, Biology teacher, commented, "The new technology, along with computer labs and the excellent media center, have made teaching more enjoyable and exciting. It is nice to have the whole Science Department staff's support here at Warren." William Olnick, senior, said, "I've really enjoyed the opportunities Warren has offered me. In fact, the horticulture class has convinced me to major in landscaping."



"Chemistry is very complex, but fun."
– Angela Owens, sophomore

Along with the New Warren came new changes in the science Departmen. Mrs. Linda Bayne, Science Department Chairperson, left Warren to become the Dean of Student Services at Heather Hills Elementary School. Ms. Bayne commented, "I have had many exciting years here at Warren. Watching these kids grow into young ladies and gentlemen has been a very unique experience that I will always remember. The new elementary school job will in no way compare with the people I've worked with here." Andrea Peck, senior, said, "Physiology is a very chalenging class, but I'm glad I took it because the knowledge I have gained in the class will help me throughout all different walks of life."

Math teaches daily concepts

Absolute Value

Through mathematics classes, many individuals learned that math prepares students for life. "Math teaches the fundamentals of numbers and problem solving no matter what you do with your life," said senior Tony Robinson. Freshman Michelle Lutrell said, "I realize that I will always need math so I try to do my best in class."

With the latest addition to the curriculum, the TI-81 graphing calculator, students benefited more from the curriculum. Sophomore Tara Neal said, "The calculator has made my homework move a lot quicker and easier and my level of understanding is up, too."

More and more students realized that math provides a key to the future. Junior Jamie Longerich said, "The importance of math is to better your education. It's a skill everyone will use, even at McDonald's!" Junior Wesley Sparks agreed, saying "Math helps to understand everyday concepts."

"Math teaches the fundamentals of numbers and problem solving no matter what you do with your life."
–Tony Robinson, senior

Though not always a favorite subject to students, math is definitely one of the most important as students of the nineties have come to accept.

Many students agreed that math is an important part in the furthuring of education. Everyone will benefit from math, no matter what their plans are after high school. Many students who expressed an interest in medicine took math classes very seriously. "Math doesn't just prepare me for college, but also for a life long career in the medical field," explained senior Jenny Johnson.

The learning environment was not all work and no play. "Working in groups was one way to break the monotony of everyday work," said senior Lisa Riggles. Junior Ben Phillips said, "Mrs. Oblon is very enthusiastic in the classroom. She even did a headstand when we got our new carpet!"

Physical Education classes stress cooperation

Just do it

"I think I make a difference in the students' lives by teaching them about teamwork and how to take care of their bodies. That's important in the real world," said physical education teacher Mrs. Kim Nickleson.

Besides learning about physical fitness, physical education students were also provided with a chance to have some fun. "I like having a gym class because if I'm hyper and full of energy in the middle of the day, this class gives me the opportunity to let my energy out," said freshman Nicole Firman.

The annual physical fitness test is a requirement of physical education class participants. Freshman Tabitha Jeffrey said, "The physical fitness test week is the most difficult. The older you get , the higher the requirements of fitness are."

Physical education classes not only provided the opportunity to get fit, it also gave students a chance to participate in their hobbies. Sophomore Nygree Poole said, "Playing basketball was my favorite part about gym class. Jimmie Ellison agreed, and added, "I liked swimming because it was fun and good exercise."

"If you have a chance to strengthen your body's potential, then you should take advantage of that opportunity and do it."
–Nathan Robinson, Senior

All of the incoming freshmen and sophomore students were required to take a physical education class. However, the upperclassmen had the privilege of being able to take physical education as an elective. "The best thing about physical education classes is that it keeps you in shape even it you're not an athlete," said junior Rachel Visker, adding "weight training will help me become strong and built."

Senior Nate Robinson summed it up by saying, "I feel that if you have a chance to strengthen your body's potential, then you should take advantage of that opportunity and do it."

Students make points through literature, writing and heated discussions

Making a Statement

English teachers tried to break the mold with interesting assignments and discussions. "In Great Books, we had a big discussion about Christianity and God during the Old Testament unit. Everyone said their views," said junior Laurie Hueber. Junior Andy Steffen said, "One of my favorite and most memorable assignments this year was when I had to write a comparison and contrast essay. I wrote about the similarities and differences between Power Ranger cartoons and Bruce Lee movies."

The difficulty level of English classes varied. Senior Tony Scotten said, "English is pretty easy as long as you do the homework and keep up." However, sophomore Crystal Harvey said, "I found that English teachers here are a lot stricter on their grading system than I'm used to with other teachers."

The curriculum differed, too. Chrissy Gregory said, "Our freshman English class is reading stories like 'The Necklace'. In Themes in Mythology, Junior David Hodges said, "We got to make up our own myths and watch 'The Clash of the Titans'." "In Great Books we're doing things with the Bible and Homer's The Odyssey," said Hueber. There were classes that challenged one's grammar skills, such as Intermediate Composition and Freshman and Sophomore English. There were also classes that challenged one's creativity, such as Creative Writing, and Mythology. There were classes that expanded your horizons in literature as well, such as Great Books, Themes in Science Fiction, and 20th Century American Literature.

"It would be weird to go to school and not have an English class."
–Bryce Nixon, senior

However, school was more than just homework. In every class, there was a class clown. Hodges mentioned, "Chris Dea was always contradicting what Mr. Kent said in Mythology. It was pretty funny to watch them."

English classes have been a part of student's lives since first grade. We've adapted to them and accepted them as a part of school that's here to stay. Senior Bryce Nixon concluded, "It would be weird to go to school and not have an English class. Everybody does learn a lot from English. We need it to be successful in the world." Media Trent

Express Yourself

Taking an art class gave students a chance to escape from the typical classroom atmosphere and it even helped some students prepare for their future career. Senior Jeff Himes said, "My Advanced Art class has given me the chance to focus my art skills in the direction that I would like to go in the future."

According to the interest of each student, there are many different types of art classes for students to choose. Sophomore Scott Mosley, enrolled in a jewelry class, commented, "I like the hands-on experience that we get." Sophomore Gabe Sarfaty added, "It's fun to work with the torches when we make different kinds of jewelry." "My favorite project in my art class was the still life project when we drew glasses using real props," said junior William Gude.

Art classes provided an opportunity for students to express themselves in a more creative way. Senior Meri Moore said, "I like the fact that I can do a lot of things that I didn't know I could do. Ceramics lets me be creative and explore different things. It's also a constructive way to release some of my frustrations." Tammy Hochgesang and Natalie Mozee, senior jewelry students, said, "The leather project was neat because we were able to be more creative instead of being told exactly how it needed to be done and we will be able to keep the leather for a long time."

"Ceramics lets me be creative and explore different things."

Artists often find inspiration through many different things; sometimes it is something they see or maybe something they hear. Jeff Himes, a student in Mr. Foster's avanced art class, said, "We have very interesting discussions which have become inspirational for certain projects."

Whether they be for personal enjoyment or directed towards future plans, art classes are a great means for students to express themselves in a variety of ways. Jennifer Stayton

Students take Foreign Language classes and break language barriers

¿Qué Pasa?

El Cinco de Mayo parties, Mardi Gras masks, and Froshing festivals were some of the ways that Foreign Language teachers tried to emphasize the culture behind each language.

The edition of the language lab helped the teachers by letting the students watch TV. shows and videos from other countries in a stae-of-the-art facility. "When we go to the lab as a Latin class, we learn about the rise and the fall of the Roman Empire. It's a really interesting part of history," said sophomore Shaunda Mayo.

Other students are the taking language and cultural skills that they have learned and are using them outside of class. Jason Cottey, junior, was a third year German student and was accepted into the Honors Program at Indiana University. He will go to Germany as a foreign exchange student. Missy Byrd, senior, is also going to the country that she's been studying, France. "Visiting France this summer will be really interesting because after taking five years of French, I'll be able to use what I learned in the actual culture."

"Visiting France this summer will be really interesting because after taking five years of French, I'll be able to use what I learned in the actual culture."

Japanese students also took a three-week trip to Japan last summer. "Being in Japan was a unique cultural experience. I learned much about the people and the way kids grow up there," said junior, Chris Roberts. Warren also had over thirty foreign exchange students from other countries, including Germany, Russia, Turkey, and Spain.

These students and others found foreign languages to be more than words and phrases–they also got a chance to learn about other people in other places. Sophomore Melanie Milliman said, "I'm taking Spanish because my career will involve going to Spanish-speaking countries. Preparing students for life in the 90's

Life Skills

Students learned practical life skills, such as sewing on a button or making a decent breakfast, in thier Home Economics classes.

Preparing food, sewing, and learning parenting skills were all a part of Home Economics. Erica Smith said, "Child Care classes taught me to think about someone other than myself. They also prepared me for the future." Junior Nicole Wilson said, "With the hands-on experiences that this class gives me, it will be easier to get a job after graduation or choose a career to pursue in college."

Senior Kelly Tripp explained, "Child Care gave me hands-on experience with children. It helped me get to know what their needs were and how to deal with them."

Home Economics classes proved to be a learning experience as well as fun times. Mrs. Horstman said, "I like teaching best when the students are interested. Unlike other classes where it shows up in paper work when the student isn't paying attention, in cooking class you can really see or sometimes taste the difference. During one of my classes, a group of students decided that they would make muffins by using their own instructions. Well, you could imagine what they tasted like!"

"Home Ecomomics is great,especially when you get out on your own."

Sophomore Donnise Rivera commented, "It's all good, even the stuff that tastes bad!" Working Overtime

Taking Care of Business

"I want to be an accountant. This class is preparing me for college and future advancement," said junior Tangela Turner about her accounting class. There are many other business classes offered in the Walker Career Center, as well. Senior Josh Mason said, "I plan on majoring in radio and T.V. in college and this is a great start. I figure I might as well get used to it."

Senior speedwriting student Andrea Peck said, "I took speedwriting so I could take notes more efficiently in college. It's not as difficult as I had expected, and I am pleased with how well I've done." Typing teacher Mr. Mike Kirschner said, "The influence of computers and technology in our society makes it necessary for people to be able to type." Dave Green added, "It's a skill that you can have all your life and never forget. People need to know how to type correctly because computers will be used a lot in the future."

66 I thought it would be neat to be on the radio. This class gives me the chance.99 –Jeff Hintz, sophomore

Sophmore William Soper said, "Learning how to type will give me a skill in case I don't end up becoming what I want to be."

The Co-Op program allowed students to leave school after a few subjects and then go to work. Senior Jamie Tewell said, 'Co-Op has given me the advantage of gaining knowledge of the business world. Co-Op has also taught me many things about getting and keeping a job. It's a fun class, but you do miss out on some school events.'

Although most business classes were considered as college prep or vocational, some students take them for fun. Taking a business class did not mean that you have to continue to pursue the subject. Sophmore Jeff Hintz said, "I've always thought it would be neat to be a commentator on the radio and this class gives me the chance." Angie Walters, sophomore, said, "I just always wanted to be on T.V." Aimee Trumpey

Working towards the 21st century
Modern Technology

Industrial Education classes not only prepared students for possible careers but also provided a change of pace from the traditional classroom setting. Junior John Canatsey said, "Auto Repairs is almost like a working atmosphere where everyone tries to get along. It's interesting because I can use what I learn, like on working on my buddys' cars."

Shaun Jamison, junior, said, "People think that in factory jobs today, machines do everything and workers just sit around watching. Actually, we do the work and set it up and the machine helps to get it done. After graduation, I plan on going to Vincennes, which has a top-rated vocational program, and what I'm learning in the Walker Career Center will help me with the type of field I want to get into."

Up-to-date technology and work methods made for a better learning experience. Senior David Dusick said, "I'm glad that Warren has the Walker Career Center because it gives students opportunities that other schools can't offer. I'm taking a Computer Aided Drafting class to gain experience and to get a feel for mechanical engineering." Senior Mike Hardwick commented, "Some of the tools I use in class aren't even used in dealerships and auto shops yet. In my Autobody class we have a paint booth and learn to mix new paints, while in Auto Mechanics we have the Allen Machine and learn the principles behind it." The Industrial Education department gave students a base for their future and an alternative to a basic academic curriculum.

"I'm planning to go to Vincennes and what I"m learning will help me with the type of field I want to get into."

Fun moments and relaxed atmoshpheres highlighed class time. Senior Jeff Long said, I remember when I blew up a light bulb in Electronics. I set it for 120 volts and it exploded. It's not as easy as it looks

High on Stress

As the end of the year came, the publication staffs found themselves in a mist of finals, deadlines, and STRESS! This year brought about a lot of changes including the hiring of a new newspaper administrator. "I'm happy that everyone held together and didn't quit when the new people came in. They all pulled together and taught us about the high school and how it works. Open to new ideas, together we turned the Owl into a community newspaper," said Mr. Haab, adviser to the newspaper.

A large part, of every staff is the various types of people. "The people in newspaper are sort of a different kind of breed. We all like different kinds of music, hang out with different groups of people, and enjoy different types of things. We are all so different, but there is something that I can't quite put my finger on that brings us all together," said Darcy Cross. The Editors in Chief of the newspaper were Smriti Banthia and Darcy Cross. The yearbook's editors were Jenny Stayton and Lydia Serrano. "They worked hard to make yearbook fun and at the same time challenging," said yearbook students Stephanie Van Y and Kristy McPhillips.

"I'll never forget all our last-minute deadlines and every unique personality on staff. The Owl rules!!"

Still, the staff wouldn't be complete without the photographers or the business staff. The photography editor was Michelle Olnick. This year the photographers took personal photo shots that came out just as well as the Prestige shots, The business staff spent the year designing the Senior ads and collecting money for the yearbook sales. We kept ourselves real busy," said Senior ads editor, Jenny Coffin.

As the year dwindled down both staffs pulled together and helped each other met their deadlines. "At stressful times, such as deadline days, it helps when the whole staff pulls together and supports each other.

My Mind Is Made Up
Don't confuse me with the facts

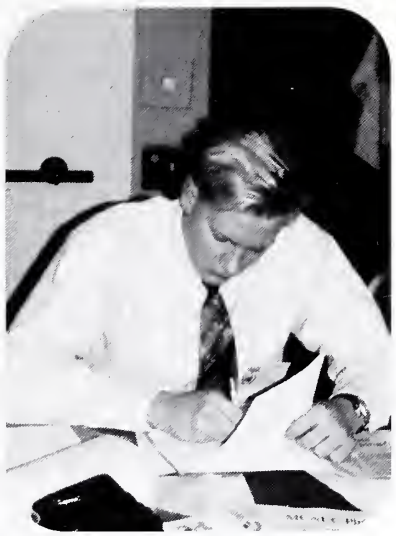
"Social Studies helps me better understand events presently going on in the world and better understand past events" Senior Brian Finley said.

When past and present come together in a class like International Relations the unusual is the usual. As junior Nelia Hoffman stated, "Everything about I.R. is unusual."

"In World History, you learn about the past and diffrent people and their cultures," said sophomore Sparkle Strode.

Psychology, Sociology and Philosophy were also included in the social studies curriculum. "Psychology was interesting because it let you explore aspects of the human mind that you wouldn't get to talk about in other classes," said junior Media Trent.

Many students wonder why they have to take U. S. History. Junior Jason Groce said, "It gives us good insight into our country's past mistakes, so our generation doesn't repeat them."



66 There were friends, allies, and backstabbing fun for everyone during the International Relations class trip to Chicago. 99

SOCIAL – STUDIES

Staff show students that their efforts are appreciated

Keep Up the Good Work

"This year at Warren Central, we are trying to emphasize awarding those who show academic excellence," said Mr. Albano during his speech at the National Honor Society Induction ceremony. The ceremony was one of many programs throughout the year that highlighted excellence in students in the school. Nearly one hundred students became members of NHS, a nationwide group that encourages service, scholarship, character, and leadership, during ceremonies taking place in the fall and spring.

Students also attended a Top Ten Banquet held for the ten students in each class with the highest grade point averages. "It was really an honor to go to the banquet because students aren't always congratulated for their hard work," said sophomore Gina Whitmore.

This year was also the first time that each grade level had its own awards ceremony at the end of the year. Awards were given for the top one hundred, athletic scholars, and subject awards. Some seniors were also awarded scholarships by the School Board for their efforts. Some highlights were Joel Hawkins and Melinda Mibs who were named top overall freshmen, Katie Donges, who was awarded the H.O.B.Y. Foundation Award for showing sophomore class leadership. Among other scholarship winners, seniors Cindy Doyle and Amanda Puyear were awarded the Nancy Witte Memorial Scholarship.

"It was really an honor to go to the Top Ten Banquet because students are often never congratulated for their efforts."

–Gina Whitmore, sophomore

Overall, more than four hundred students were recognized for their academic excellence. As Mr. Albano said, "You cannot demand excellence, but you can expect it. And when students like these reach excellence, you must reward them."

Football team has best season in ten years

Making History

The football team made tremendous achievements this season. They were Sectional Champions over Lawrence Central. Junior Darius Barker was one of the stars of the game; he scored two touchdowns and gained176 yards in 28 carries. Another high point was when junior Brad Griggs scored a 25 yard field goal. Lawrence Central, who hadn't lost a game since September, was overcome by warriors with a score of 21-7.

There were many individual triumphs. "In the game against Pike, I threw for 204 yards and two touchdowns," said junior Jay Woodburn. Senior Jason Czap broke his own school record for quarterback sacks and got the awards for Most Tackles for Losses and the Most Valuable Player. He commented, "In the game against Lawrence Central, I had four sacks which tied the game record, and put me on track for my goal." Jermaine Satterfield, senior, added, "We beat Carmel, something we hadn't done since 1985."

With a final win-loss record of 10-2, no one could deny that the season was a success, and could even be labeled as historic. However the team members walked away with much more than a record of victories. "The best part of playing football is learning how important it is to play as a team, not as individuals," said Senior Jeremy Duncan. Satterfield added, " Football has helped to keep me out of trouble and taught me to be more responsible."

Coach David Shelbourne said, "We knew it would be tough, and I'm pleased with our kids. They gave a good effort." Senior Mike Espich summed up, "I'll just let history do the talking. It was the best season in ten years. Personally it felt great." Media Trent

"'Dedication, Determination, Discipline, and Desire' was the phrase we used to describe our season," said sophomore Jessica Troxel. "These four words helped us perform our best in meets, practices, and added to the team's comradery," said freshman Erica Miller. The girls overall team record and size improved much from past years.

Early in the season, the team took a trip to a health club for three days of extensive workouts. "The 'Health Club,' as we refer to it, was the most challenging workout I've been through. From the hours spent on aerobics, running, and weightlifting, we were all sore. It was a great way to start the season,though," said freshman Leah Stanfield. The underclassmen also proved to be a great benefit to the team. Over half of the varsity squad were freshmen and sophomores. The freshmen demonstrated their abilities by placing second in the Freshman County with Abby Norris in second place.

The team was also fortunate enough to aquire an assistant coach. "Mrs. Nickleson is the only assistant coach I've had in a long time. She proved to be a great motivator and a large help organizing the team with the increase in size," said Coach Jane Seymour.

In the end, this was a season full of laughs, tears, and achieved goals. "This was my last year on the Cross Country team and I will miss it very much. From the twenty 200's on the track to the Dairy Queen runs, the season was a great success," concluded Denell Guy. Stephanie Van Y

The boys cross country season started off with a big bang. At the opening meet, the Warren Central Hokum-Kahrem, the boys got a chance to test their abilities while getting an early glance at the competition. The boys came out of the meet 14th out of 23 teams, which gave them a good start. "From the first meet, the new freshmen on the team started to show their stuff," said sophomore Mike Derryberry about the season.

This year's sucess has been due, in part, to the superior coaching staff. Mr. Joe Brooks and Dennis McNulty showed the former and new runners the ways of the race. "Dennis has always been a great benefit to the cross country team. His having received a Coach of the Year Award shows this. Having an assistant coach enables me to run with the boys while he takes care of the courses, stats., and organizing the program,"said Coach Brooks.

The fact that over half the team was composed of freshmen and sophomores proved to be greatly beneficial. With the two grade levels put together, they managed to finish second to Ft. Wayne Northrop by one point in the prestigious Culver Invitational. Twenty of the top teams in the state competed, sophomores Mike Wilson and Mike Derryberry exceeded beyond expectations with a fourth and ninth place finish. The freshmen managed to capture the County championship with a low team score of 65, beating North Central's 75 points. This, along with the victories in two other invitationals, inspired many of the boys to do thier best. By the end of the season, all the hard work and dedication the boys displayed payed off with a victorious season. Stephanie VanY

County Championship inspires team

Set, Spike, Win

With the Lady Warriors focused on improving unity and having a successful season, this year's volleyball team left behind a winning season unmatched by previous teams. The victory they brought home from the County Championship highlighted their season. "Our best games of the season were in County against Beech Grove and Ben Davis. We really worked together as a team and everyone did their job on the court," said junior Kristen Morgan.

There were many six packs, spikes, and blocks that gave the girls the intensity to have as many victories as they did, but no certain player could have done it alone. Although the team fell short of their goal to win Sectionals, teams spirits were still high as they remembered the goals they did achieve. "We had a highly enjoyable season and were very successful. We always worked together as a team. This made the team better and gave us desire to excel and work hard," said Coach Plummer.

Their many different personalities allowed the girls to have fun and reach most of the goals that were set. "I'd have to say that this year was one of my favorites. The unity of the team and the friendships developed were very strong. We have discovered many things about ourselves and others that have made us better people," said senior Jill VanVelse. Through hard work and dedication, the volleyball team accomplished many goals and made many memories along the way. Angela Hancock

Boys soccer has winning season and wins Sectionals

"We are the Champions"

"We had one of the best seasons in the history of the Boys program here. I was very proud of the effort and togetherness of the team." said Coach Gary Roberts. The boys varsity soccer team had a record season, literally. They, along with the girls varsity team, made Warren the first school in IHSAA history to have two sectional champions for soccer. "Winning Sectionals was great because it was what I worked so hard for my whole high school career," said senior Eric Estelle

The team had a few rough spots which were worked out successfully through the course of the season. They would go to breakfast and church together to improve team unity. "Early in the season, we had a problem with communication on the field. We were able to work it out and that helped to make the season run more smoothly," said senior David Hewitt. Junior Chris Roberts said. "We had a very successful season and we won Sectionals. We started the season well, but in the middle, our team started to fall apart. Luckily, there was a lot of leadership on the team to turn us back in the right direction."

The team had different ways of preparing and pumping themselves up during games. Sometimes the outcome wasn't as expected though. "The funniest thing that happened this season was when I scored against Jennings County, and I bowed to their crowd. Jeff Martin tried the same thing when he scored, and they red-carded him for it." said junior Bradley Griggs.

It took hours of hard work and dedicatoin but the team did the unexpected of a Warren Central boys soccer team, and that was to advance so far in the State tournament. Kristy McPhillips

"No one expected us to do that well this season, but we proved all of them wrong and won Sectionals in the process," said junior Christy Adamson. The team's ability to pull together in tough games proved to be one of the winning factors of the season. "We lost nine important starters and had to rebuild with what we had. We got a lot of help from freshmen Michelle Shubert and Julie Houch," said senior captain Kelly McCrosson. "Early in the season, we had three or four tough competitors in a row. I did not want the girls think that they could start trying to play around after those games. They came out and gave it their all and I am proud of them," said Coach Gary Roberts.

"The season wasn't all fun and games, but it had its moments," said senior Heather Smith. "For example, I was on the field tucking in my jersey, and the referee told me 'Number 10, get your hands out of your pants!' A lot of fans heard him," The Junior Varsity had a tough season, but gained vital experience from it. "The team learned a lot this season, how to work together, and how to support each other, even when we didn't do quite so well on the field. We started to click in the latter part of our season," said sophomore member Heidi Scott.

The team had a successful year, and made IHSAA history. Along with the boys team, they made Warren Central the first school to have two teams as Sectional champions. "I've been playing soccer for Warren since my freshman year, and this was one of the best teams to come out of this program," concluded senior Lisa Riggles. Kristy McPhillips

Tough opponents challenge players

Serve's Up

"We had a pretty satisfying season. I think we played better than we have in previous years and we had a lot of fun," said junior Jeff Terry. The boys tennis team, with a record of 4-12, was able to perform well against tough competion. Number one Varsity Jason Vanlue, junior, said, "I improved from last year and tried to stay competitive throughout the season I started off strongly and tried to stay at that level. We played some tough teams, so Warren had to be prepared."

Much fun was had throughout the season. Sophomore Jeff Hintz said, "When I was winning and the coaches were there to cheer me on is when I enjoyed tennis the most." Sophomore Corey Langston added, "The most fun was the pool party we had after practice. The guys all got together and cut it loose a little bit. We didn't have to be competitive and focused like on the courts."

The boys tennis team highlighted their season with the hard-fought victory over Mount Vernon. Tony Hull, junior, said, "It was a tough match because we were very close in skill level. We had never beaten them before so the 3-2 win was very satisfying." Another high point of the season was the number one doubles Varsity win in the second round of Sectionals. Honorary team captain Jason Britton said, "The second round of Sectionals, I played my best match of the year. My partner and I found the strength to win and that was great becasue we did not expect to get that far." Coach Rich Shepler said, "We were always very competitive in every match we played. The boys tennis team was able to achieve a winning record and with the schedule that we had, that was quite an accomplishment." Lydia Serrano

Focusing on their goals, the members of the girls golf team had a very rewarding season. Sophomore Jennifer Delk said, "I practiced with the team and on my own, too, and I concentrated on my game while I was playing."

Each girl had a different view on which game was the most fun. "My favorite game was a game that we played against the county champions. It was a good game for me because I was hitting the ball well and sinking difficult putts and I shot under my target score, " said freshman Jamie Ertle. Junior Erin Hale said, "Sectionals was the most exciting because we were not playing to win the meet, but for a good competition and to do the best we could."

Not only did the competitions provide excitement, but also gave the girls the chance to become very close friends throughout the season. Junior Erin Hale said, "This year was a lot of fun because we became very close to one another. It made the bus rides and practices a lot more fun."

As the only senior and four year veteran, captain Amber Cook, helped to lead the girls. She said, "I hoped to be a role model for the younger players. I wanted to influence them to have fun and not worry about the competition." The team ended the season with two wins, maintaining last year's record. Andrea Peck

Changes and senior leadership define season

Ruling the Pool

Though faced with many new aspects, such as new coaches, practice schedules, and locker rooms, one thing remained the same for the lady swimmers and divers; team unity. Strong senior leadership and a close-knit team defined the season. Senior co-captain Stephanie Sweet said, "Most of my best friends are swimmers or divers, so swim season allows us a chance to have fun together while competing."

Swimming involved much hard work and many long hours. Sophomore Jennifer Harris said, "The practices can be really hard, but the hardest thing about being on the team for me was learning to correct your stroke after learning it a certain way. " Junior Jaime Longerich said, " Diving practices are long and tedious hours of the same thing over and over. You don't feel like you've accomplished anything until a meet." Senior Aimee Trumpey added, "Because I was the only "regular" distance swimmer, I was usually in a lane by myself with a separate workout. The support I got from my coaches and teammates helped an incredible amount because our practices were really tough this year."

Though the girls put a lot of effort into training, they still found time to share memorable moments. Freshman Michelle Lutrell said, "I remember when some of the team went out to breakfast after a morning practice and then played frisbee and went roller-blading." Senior co-captain Andrea Peck said, "This was my most successful season. I improved both of my scores, was runner-up in County, went to State, and broke three records. My hard work truly paid off." With a 98% rate of improvement from the previous year, the Lady Warriors faced the challenge of tough competition with poise and confidence. Lydia Serrano

Boys swim team takes the plunge

Splashing Around

For most people, the choice of diving into cold water at five-thirty in the morning or sleeping in isn't much of a decision to make. However, for the boys swimming team, it is not a choice, but a requirement. "Getting up so early in the morning was very challenging. However, it made us work harder and kept us focused," said junior David Kent. "On days that we have morning practice, I ususally fall asleep at least once during the day. Because of this, I am forced to manage my time at home better and my grades have gone up," said sophomore Mike Keller.

Like all other sports, the results of all the hours of practice are obvious to the team members, coaches and fans. Coach Jim Webber commented, "The record doesn't show how much we've improved because we have a hard drill schedule. But we did go from ranking fourteenth up to sixth in the county. We are, without a doubt, twice as good as last year." Senior David Hewitt said, "Because we spend so many hours together, everyone really grows together as a team. My most memorable moment was when we beat Joe! Everyone pulled together to beat this guy that we didn't even know. Most people don't realize how hard swimming is until they try it. We've had athletes from every other sport try to swim, but it was to hard for them. For us to do these workouts twice a day, it gets extremely exhausting, but it is all worth it! Swimming is definetly not for those who aren't self-motivated, hardworking, and willing to put in the hours." Aimee Trumpey and Elizabeth Lake

4 - 1 Season Record		13

The boys basketball team started off the season not doing as well as they expected, but with leadership from the seniors, ended up pulling together as a team. Sophomore Danny Davison said, "I feel that the team hasn't accomplished what we wanted in the beginning, but in the end I think we turned it around rather well." Donald Smith, junior, said, "I think by the middle of the season we finally began to play hard and with a motive to work together with a purpose."

The boys spent many hours going over thier plays and running the ball. "The hard work we did made it a real experience and a challenge," said sophomore Gary Grove. Darius Barker said, "I think the best part of our team is the competiveness most of the guys are out to play hard, have fun, and of course, win." Junior Tyrelle Collins said, "I enjoy my role as a leader and a scorer." County was a long tough battle for the boys. Troy Simmons said, "I don't think we performed as well as we could have." We didn't play hard enough defense." Damian Chabet said, "I feel we let the game get away from us, but we played extremely hard."

The boys team ened up finishing off the season better than they had planned, Jarrod Gaines said, "I think our Junior Varsity team has shown our strong points and what we can really do when we pull together as a team. The boys basketball team fell into place in the end and really showed what pulling together as a team is all about. "We're still a pretty young team, but I think we have shown how comming together as a team makes us winners," said freshman Herbie Jackson. April Harvey

"This year's lady Warrior basketball team was more aggressive and more talented than teams in the past. Our intensity and understanding of the game as well as our relationships to each other have improved throughout the season," said Coach Clark, adding, "the record doesn't always show the effort that was put forth."

Concentrating on improving defense, along with other areas of the game, the ladies worked hard at practice and looked forward to showing what they could do in the games. "We all worked to improve on our individual game. Every girl had a certain role to play on and off the court. My job was to control the paint offensively and defensively," said junior Joy Krause. The team began as individualists and ended up as a solid unit working towards one common goal. "Everyone on this team was a leader, maybe not verbally, but by actions on and off the court," said junior Kristen Morgan.

Although the Junior Varsity had a slow start they continuously improved and won their last five games. "This team was able to stay positive and aggressive towards getting better. We were able to improve throughout the year," said coach Spaulding.

Whether it was Christmas breakfast at the coach's house or just staying after practice to play two on two with Coach Spaulding and Coach Shepler, the ladies and coaches always seemed to have a good time together. "I remember one time after our game, while the varsity was warming up, several of us were on the balcony at Perry Meridian and music was playing and we all started to dance. Everyone was looking at us like we were crazy, but we were just having fun," said sophomore Angie Walters.

Sophomore Natalie Visker said, "We did a lot better than what was expected of us. The team got better and better at each practice and always gave it their all. Being on the team was a great experience." Angela Hancock

The Wrestling Team Shows Heart and Determination

Prayer and Dedication

As the 1994-95 wrestling season opened, many members realized the hard work they were facing to have a successful and winning team.

Prayer and dedication was the approach of the team in order to become mentally and physically prepared for each meet. "Our coaches get us ready for a meet by telling us what we need to do to win and by working us hard in practice," said senior Jason Czap."

Freshmen made a big difference in the level of competitiveness of the team. "The highlight of my season was when I made varsity as a Freshman," said Major Jones.

"We are finally a team that cares for each other. The varsity team has fifteen wrestlers that we can depend on to help fill in when needed and who give 100% on the mat," said coach Nesbit.

Senior Sam Henderson said "My best meet was at Franklin Central, I won by technical fault. Junior Louis Houston added, "My worst meet was at North Central. I went down in my weight."

The wrestlers had a good season with 6 out of 13 going to state. They had hard practices and meets, but in the end it was a very good year. "We had an interesting year. I hope next year will be even better," said coach Nesbit. Toya Barnes

Gymnasts stay focused defending 12-0 record

Perfection Under Pressure

Last year's success gave this year's young gymnastics team a challenge to maintain at the top. As the defending county champions, the girls had to give their best effort at each practice and meet. "We need to stay focused and hit our routines," said junior Rachel Line. Senior Missy Byrd said, "I think we just really need to be supportive of each other and show them how strong we are." Sophomore Tara Neal said," I think we need to just make sure our routines are polished so that we can score higher." Coach Seymour said, "A younger team like ours offers a strong base for a program that is growing even more every year."

The strength of the team does not rely on one event or one member. "We are strong all around. Certain people are better at certain events," said sophomore April Harvey. With each member having a different strength, all got to contribute their best scores to the team total. Junior Kelly Waelde said, "We are all really valuable even if we don't place in an event. We all encourage and support one another, which is just as important as being able to pull a full on floor." This support, along with hard work, led the girls to a triumphant season.

Each girl had their own views about what the best aspect of being on the team was. Sophomore Stacey Boots said, "I think winning as a team and knowing we all contributed is the best." Sophomore Chong Walters said, "I think being able to be with my friends in the gym is the greatest part." Sophomore Ann Grill said, "I think the pressure of competition is the best thing." Though certain moments stood out as the best, all agreed that being a part of the team was really the best. Perhaps freshman Sara James put it best, "We are all like family." Being as close as a family helped the gymnastics team, once again, to succeed. Andrea Peck

Varsity Record: 14-1-9

Throughout the boys baseball season, many goals were acomplished. Junior Jay Woodburn said, "We had many goals, but the main one was to win as many games as we could." As the season continued and the boys practiced they began to see improvement.

The team was pleased with the season for many different reasons. Senior Jason Czap said "I feel this team is a young team, yet a solid team. We made big plays when the game is on the line." Woodburn also added "We accomplished our goals because we played as a team and not as individuals."

Team leadership was an important aspect to the team. "I think that Jimmy Place and I were the team leaders. Jimmy because he is an excellent player and the others look up to him. I think everyone looks up to me too, and I keep order on the team, kind of like the team bouncer," said senior Jason Czap.

The team learned from their coach Harry Preston. Coach Preston said"The team this year has worked harder than any of the teams I have coached in the past. I'm really happy with our results." When the season came to an end, many goals had been reached and the season ended with a bang. Jason Buffalari

Strong batting average leads team to winning season

High Standards

The Warriors headed into the season with high expectations. They competed with determination and intensity to strive for success. Winning County was only one of the goals accomplished. "It was a great feeling for me to see the team screaming and hugging each other after we won County. This team really was a team, not a group of individuals," said Coach Highley.

The special team unity allowed success to come easily to the Warriors. "This team knew that if we wanted something bad enough that we could accomplish it as long as we played up to our potential. This year we had a special team unity that was missing in seasons before," said senior Karrie Humphries.

"It kept going and going and then finally it was gone. I hit my first homerun for Warren against Lawrence North this season. It was a great feeling!" said Junior Jamie Ellis. Homeruns and hits came natural to the Warriors as the team was filled with many veteran players. The team was led with six seniors and five juniors.

Softball brings enjoyment to the players as well as pressure. Senior Jenny Hughes said "Being a catcher I really felt the pressure when a runner was on third base. I had to keep everything in front of me or else a run could score."

Both Warrior teams ended the season with winning records. "I think that both teams were very successful. The Junior Varsity team worked together very well and I had a great time while playing," said sophomore Laura Jansen. Angela Hancock

Rain or shine the boys track team went out, and gave it their best. This dedication led the No. 2 Ranked Warriros to the State Championship title. Sophomore John Swanigan said, "My best performance was when I ran a 10.6 at Richmand and became the fastest runner in the state of Indiana."

Working towards certain goals kept the desrie strong for the Warriors. Junior Ron Mason said, "Our goals were to maintain our ranking and to compete to the best of our ability every meet."

Team leaders are very important to keep a winning team a success. Senior Pat Meredith said, "I think that Michael Bennett showed great team leadership because all season long he would pump everyone up and said a prayer before every meet." Junior Jeff Martin says, "I think the team leaders were the Seniors because, they have been here the longest and they know what to do."

This track season was one of the better ones, it had many great events come of it. "The best thing that has happened this season is that we won county champion, I finished first in the 800m run, and I set a new school record," said junior Brad Griggs. Senior Jason Schanzel said, "I think the best thing that happened this season for me, is at sectionals, I threw a personal best in both shot & discus, and I also placed 7th in shot.

"This season went fantastic! It has been tough on the old coach trying to keep up, but what a great group of young men," said Coach McNulty. Out of these great group of men came many state, regioanl, and sectional competitors to lead the warriors to a victorius season. Jennifer Humble

Feeling the power...

It's all in the mind

In the beginning of the Lady Warriors track season, the team knew they would have to work hard. "We knew what we wanted to do this year, and we set our minds on our goals. We wanted recognition and we earned it," said coach James Taylor.

The new editions and changes to the team contributed to the exciting atmosphere. Coach Nickelson, the new distance coach, brought new strategies and ideas to the team. The addition of the freshmen provided competition for upperclassmen and other schools. "It was fun and almost frightening running with the upperclassmen, but the team worked hard to make us part of their family," said freshman distance runner, Abby Norris.

The team grew together throughout the season. "I think the way we all pulled together and really acted like a team showed how strong we were. We started off thinking only as individuals, but by the end of the season we were a family," said sophomore sprinter April Harvey.

The coaching staff tried many new tactics to help the team get motivated. Team leadership was an important part in the year. "I think that leadership on the track team is more of a communative effort rather than just one or two people. We have leaders in each event," said senior thrower Amanda Hacker.

The team's goals were basically to make It to sectionals and win "We accomplished our goals mostly by working hard and trying our best at meets," said junior sprinter Dawn D. Scott.

"This year was a growing season for the entire team, and we're proud of our accomplishments," said middle-distance runner, junior Stephanie Van Y.

Left: Nikki Powell focuses all her attention on the moment of take-off. "If you let anything distract you at this moment, then it's over," says Nikki.

Through hard work and determination the boys golf team achieved a lot of their goals. Matt Seibal said, "The team's goals, like any other team, were to win." They placed fourth at County and at the North Central Invitational, fifth out of the best teams in the state. Joe Witchie shot his best score of 80. Matt Seibal said, "At North Central our whole team worked hard and did well."

While all were good overall players, the golf team was made up mostly of underclassmen. Junior Tony Hull said, "Our team was really young and most of our players didn't really worry about being leaders but just being part of a team." Sophomore Jeff Hintz agreed and said, "We didn't really worry about having leaders, but how we were playing."

The golf team worked well together all season long. Chris Hines said, "We seemed to all pull together at the right matches and do well." Joe Witchie said, "The top three players usually put in the best work, but there are good scores everywhere on this team, and with more experience, they are going to get better."

With a lot of ambition and a ton of heart, our golf team ended there season with a winning record. Steve Witchie said, "To obtain the goals that we want, everyone needs to practice a little harder and more often, then we'll have a state championship team."

Team leaders helped make good examples and encourage all members. "The juniors and seniors were the team's leaders because they gave me something to look forward to," said freshman Katrina Cawthorne. Smriti Banthia said, "The seniors were the leaders because they were the most experienced."

The season was filled with good moments and highlights for everyone. "The highlight of my season was the game against Ben Davis. I had lost the first set and at the beginning of the second set, I fell down and badly sprained my ankle. I kept on playing, though. After the trainer wrapped my ankle, I ended up winning!" said senior Smriti Banthia. Partners Mayuko Ota and Joy Vang also had a difficult win. "We won the first set 6-3. In the second set we were down 0-5. I remember thinking how we didn't want to lose 0-6 or play a third set. We were so nervous. We ended up winning 7-5. It was awesome!"

Improvements were made by everyone. "I improved on my serve and on my all around game. I got more consistent and used more power," commented Mindy Swan. "My communication skills and mental attitude improved tremendously," said junior Joy Vang.

After all of the hard work and matches, everyone agreed that it was a great season.

Cheerleaders bring out the Warrior in everyone

Winning Spirit

Hard efforts put in by all proved to be a success for the cheerleading season. Long hours of practice, before and after school, helped to better the team and strengthen the relationships between the members. The Varsity team placed 6th in the Indiana State Fair, 2nd in the Cumberland Chamberfest, and 2nd in the Indiana Regional State Competition.

Cheerleading was a very fulfilling activity for the whole team. "Cheering has been a big part of my life for the past three years. I'll miss it very much. The people were wonderful", said senior Julie Pollard. "Sometimes it's hard to pep up a crowd, especially when your own spirits are down that day," said sophomore Karrisa Haller.

With the loss of one member, at second semester, the whole team pulled closer together. " Through the years, everyone grows closer together, like a family. When someone leaves it's like losing one of the family," said senior Summer Bergin.

During the week of Winterfest, the cheerleaders helped everyone get that 'Warrior Spirit'. During the pep session, at the end of the week, the cheerleaders strutted their stuff. With the anticipation of the last game, the group showed that the 'best just got better'. Angela Owens

"I had the best time in cheerleading this year because all the cheerleaders were so close."
–senior Leland Keyt

Left: "The Cathedral football game was the best. The crowd's spirit and participation was wonderful. Overall, I really enjoyed cheering with the squad this year. It was great," said senior Missy Byrd. Chris Wright Below: "Home games were my favorite because I felt like the fans got into it more than the away games." said sophomore Leah Lepper. Mike Merrill

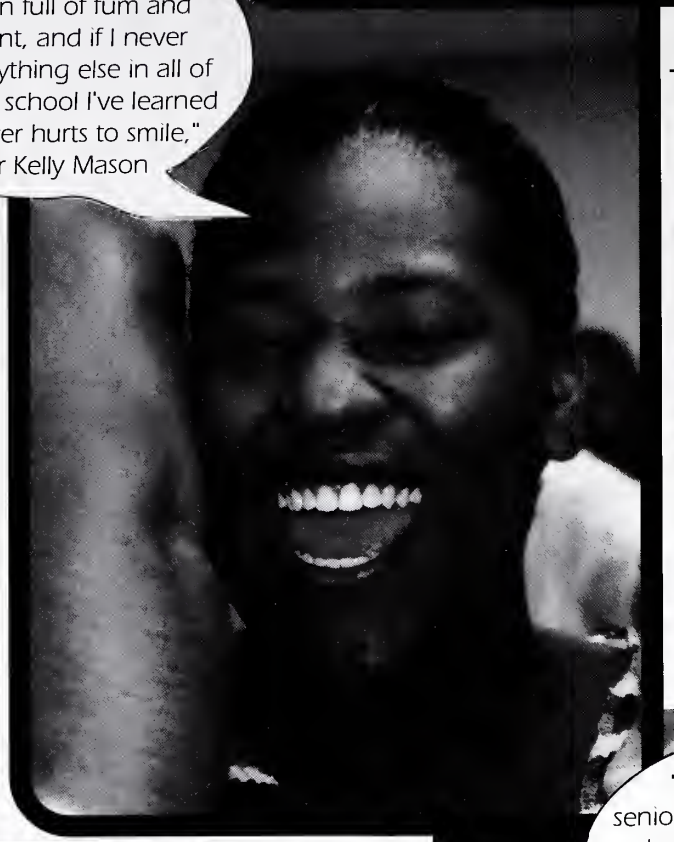
no one else is better qualified

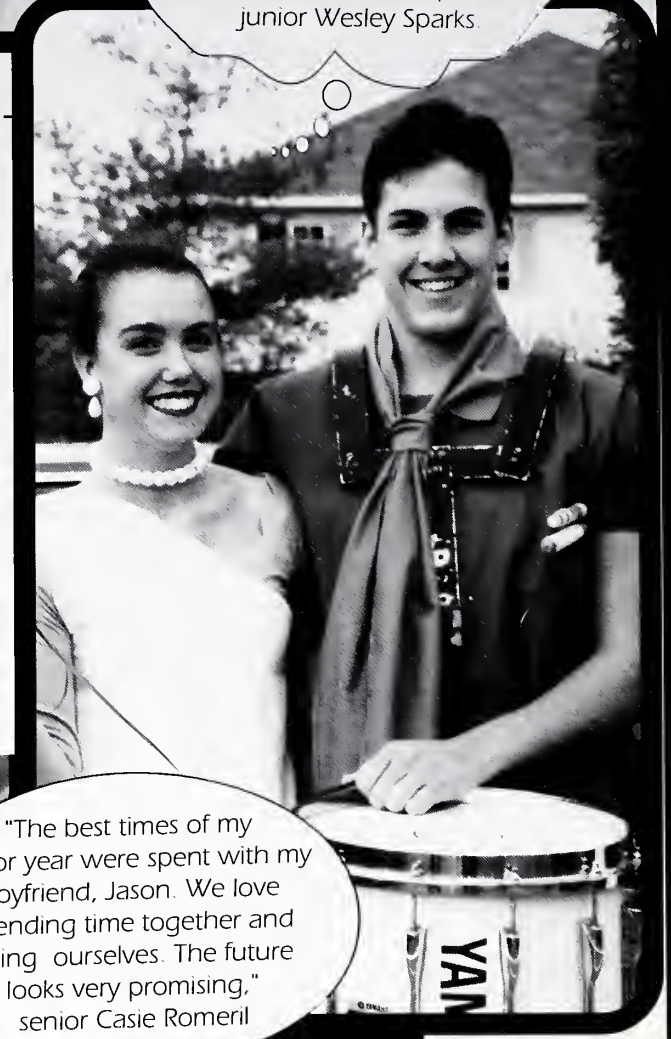
"I never dreamed being a women would be so difficult. The hardest part about it was getting my dress over my face without messing up my makeup," senior Scott Lauman

"What would life be without slinkies," senior Lydia Serrano

"Yaba Daba Du! I think my junior year at Warren Central was and always will be one of the best

"My years at Waren Central have been full of fum and excitement, and if I never learned anything else in all of my years in school I've learned that it never hurts to smile," senior Kelly Mason





"Making it the best Stephanie," junior Wesley Sparks

"The best times of my senior year were spent with my boyfriend, Jason. We love spending time together and being ourselves. The future looks very promising," senior Casie Romeril

"The looks are so tight so call me tonight," sophomore Frankie Akers

Steve Kent swore he'd shave his head if the guys track team made it to state competition. Well, they did--and they won at State, too! What will you do for an encore if they win again, Mr. Kent?

Having a student teacher around didn't mean you had to be serious all the time, Rick Reed decided. Is it all for one here, guys, or one for all?

Student Council led student body throughout the year

Fearless Leaders

"I got involved in student council because I had heard that they did more for the school than any other organization," said junior Jonna McGinly. Student Council kept the school and the community busy all year.

Senior Jody Lee said, "We sponsered many fundraisers such as car washes. We also did many activities with the elderly, and with under priviledged children. We had a children's carnival, and a senior citizen sock hop. It was a lot of fun to participate in so many different kinds of activities." The Student Council consisted of 150 members of all grades and races, which made for a good representation of the student body. The main goal of the council was to keep the community and school involved with each other.

Senior Lydia Serrano summed up, "Student Council is a great club because you learn how to help your community as well as how to become a leader in the school." Media Trent

Exercising the Mind and Body

Students used their minds and bodies to improve the community as well as themselves. "I enjoyed performing in front of the elementary students," said sophomore Jamie Clark. Peer Facilitators helped students with school as well as homelife problems. Other clubs didn't directly involve themselves with the community, but definitely had an impact. Thespians performed terrific plays produced by the school and themselves while Stage Crew kept everything behind the scenes under control. Polar Bear was a running club which students joined to stay in shape. Angie Hancock

Reaching Out to Others

With the help of their advisors, these club members learned the meaning of helping others. The clubs did a variety of things to show how they work together to make their messages more fun and educational. "I was in Project Set because they go around teaching kids and just having fun with them. I've learned a lot from Just Say No club," said junior Jonna Mc Ginley. Whether it was going to different schools or to meetings, these clubs had a great year. Toya Barnes

Free Your Mind...

Academic activities were not restricted strictly to the classroom alone. Honor Society members represented the top of the school, and shared their expertise with others by tutoring and other volunteer activities. Speech and Debate members made us all proud with their victories in competition. The Science Club went beyond what they learned in the classroom, and the Close-Up club took their curiosity to the cqpitol to bring back first-hand knowledge of goings on there. And the German Club added to our knowledge of another culture, as did the other foreign language clubs. Angie Hancock

You showed a lot of promise even when you were the littlest girl.
You looked at the world through a child's eyes, and yet you seemed to understand it so well.
You were interested in everything,
ready to try anything,
never willing to give up.
And deep within those bright eyes,
there was a special something...
As you grew,
that special quality shone clearer
and steadier and brighter.
Today, you are a wonderful,
intelligent young graduate.
You look upon a complicated world, and you are beautifully ready for its challenge.

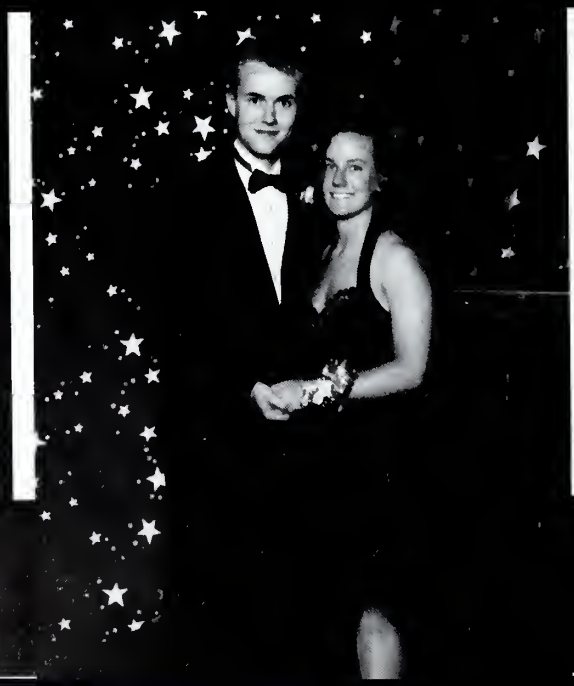
Best Wishes and Congratulations
Your family



I just wanted to let you know that I've been thinking about us, about the past, about the future, and about the love that has grown between us. I know that I don't say it as often as I should, but I love you. You mean the world to me. And, as we stand at the brink of adulthood, I'm glad it's next to you. Our love has endured where others have fallen short. Now and forever, I want you to kknow, that I'm with you in heart and soul. And together, we will always be happy in this less than perfect world. Together we will triumph. OUr love shall always be there to catch us when we fall and mend our bruised hearts. Now and forever, I love you.

The Years went by too quickly it seems,
This boy went too fast from Jammies to Jeans.
The baby shoe size 1 went to a men's 13,
From high-tops to cowboy boots he went in his teens.
The 23" baby grew into a 6 foot plus man,
As his childhood dreams became his future plans.
Singing and dancing, wrestling and football,
Giving speeches and trying to find time to do all.
To his parents he sometimes seemed accident prone,
With poison ivy, sprained ankles, and an occasional broken bone.
Whether performing as Santa, or parading as a clown,
His acting ability was soon quickly found.
His accidents with cars now should be mentioned,
Three in a year warrented in- home- detention.
He studied his welding for a contest in April,
Brought back a big trophy for Warren's prize table.
All thru the years he played all his parts,
As his goofball antics won places in hearts.
Graduation is now while May winds blow,
With the rest of his life he so boldly goes.

Greg, good luck with your future, don't miss a trick,
With lots and lots of love from Dad, Mom, and Rick.

Now let's see... who can I drive to a nervous breakdown today...not Haab, that was yesterday... not Harmon, she'd get me back...wonder if we have a sub today....

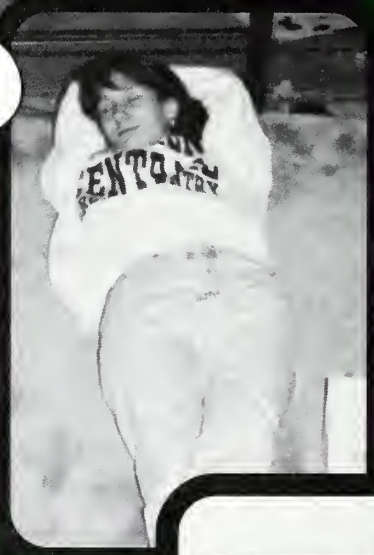
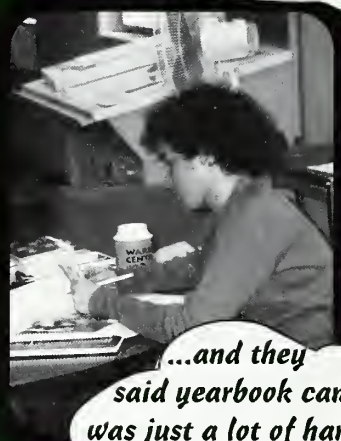
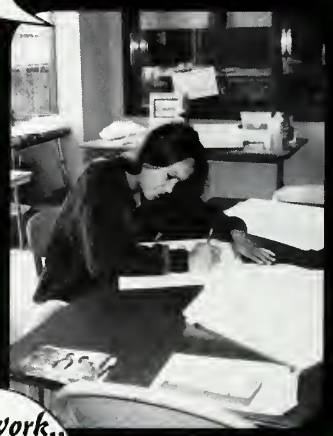
I'll be so glad to see the last of all these layouts, believe me! Yes!

If she even thinks about taking my photo I'm gonna have to think about killing her...







...and they said yearbook camp was just a lot of hard work... they forgot about frogball!

Free Your Mind...

...and the rest will follow!
Awww, shucks! I tried to sneak in after that party, but it looks like they caught me!
These hats make us all look like comic book characters...but I don't care--it's fun!
I hope nobody saw what I just did to that cute waiter!
Seeing things from a different perspective is harder than it sounds... my head hurts!
